Steve Townsend joins Ferrovial's Cintra as VP of Commercial Development

Experienced transportation leader to support highway portfolio growth in the U.S.

AUSTIN, Sept 2, 2025 - Ferrovial, a leading global infrastructure company, today announced Steve Townsend has joined its Highways division, Cintra, as Vice President of Commercial Development in the U.S., reporting to Cintra's global Director of Business Development Alberto Gonzalez. In his new role, Townsend will build upon Cintra's existing relationships and identify strategic opportunities to expand the company's highway portfolio in the U.S.

"Steve brings a deep understanding of the growing demand for infrastructure solutions essential to U.S. economic growth. His expertise will reinforce our leadership in delivering innovative transportation projects through public-private partnerships, and his public sector insights will strengthen our relationships with clients and partners," said Alberto Gonzalez, Director of Business Development for Cintra, a Ferrovial company.

"I feel incredibly fortunate to have the opportunity to join such a respected team," said Townsend. "Infrastructure creates connectivity, furthering the world's linked economies. Ferrovial is a leader in developing innovative infrastructure solutions, and I'm honored to be a part of the company's mission."

Townsend brings extensive transportation experience, most recently serving as Chief of Staff to the Deputy Governor and Commissioner of Transportation for the state of Tennessee. In that role, he executed a multiple-department effort to implement the Governor's vision for Tennessee infrastructure investments and guided the Department of Transportation's organizational operations and improvements necessary to fulfill its mission. This included overseeing a statewide effort to deliver essential infrastructure to communities and meet local needs through public-private partnerships.
